FOOLS PARADISE, written by Brian Riseborough

When we first met, I thought that we'd found true love
That we'd be together the rest of our days
Made plans for the future, life seemed so complete then
How could I have conceived it would ever end this way

(Chorus)

I was in a Fools Paradise, I thought you loved me
A Fools Paradise, I believed you really cared
Now that you're gone, to be with another
This Fools Paradise is just a desert of despair

Then came the day, you told me you were leaving
I could not believe you could hurt me this way
The sun ceased to shine for me, the birds they stopped their singing
This Fools Paradise became a desert of despair
